Infrastructure Services

In-Building Cellular

Does your building suffer from mobile device and smartphone dead zones?

- Missed calls mean lost sales opportunities
- Dropped calls waste your time and customers' time
- Weak signals may delay response to emergencies
- Frustrated customers may move to a competitor

It's Your Business

For those on the go, mobile phones are rapidly taking over as the primary communications tool of choice, but if cellular signals are too weak or not available in your building, your employees can become isolated from customers and colleagues. To avoid this situation, you should have a proven IT partner examine your building layout, coverage requirements, and service objectives to provide you with an effective, affordable design.

What We Do

- Cellular site surveys
- Cellular signal mapping
- Cellular distribution system installation
- Cellular coverage testing
- Cellular signal security
